STITCH EXPLANATION:

DUPLICATE STITCH

Duplicate stitch is a very simple embroidery stitch where you use a piece of stockinette knit as canvas and place your stitches so that they follow the weave of the stockinette. It works best on stockinette pieces where the back of the work (where the yarn is carried) is not visible.

Thread the yarn into the large-eyed, blunt needle. Working from the back of the fabric, bring the needle up through the center of an existing stitch.

Follow the yarn of the stitch up, to the point where it goes under the next stitch above. Insert your needle at this point, so your yarn lies on top of the existing yarn in the stitch and bring it back up at the point where the yarn of the existing stitch comes back to the front.

Following the existing stitch and insert the needle in the same loop where you started. Keep the tension loose so that your new color stays on top.

To continue to the next stitch in the same horizontal row, simply bring the needle up through the center of that stitch and repeat the process.

To skip several stitches, simply pass the yarn

3. Use it to pull a loop of several strands through the scarf (three strands were used in the example.)
4. Pull the end of the tassel through the loop and tighten it.

When you are finished, trim the tassels to match the length of the original ones.
