BABY ALPACA DIAMOND SCARF

Baby Alpaca is the very finest fleece from the animal's undercoat nearest the chest where the fibres are least exposed to weather and dirt. It is these fine fibres that create this exquisitely soft scarf. Woven with a small diamond pattern on handlooms by artisans in the Peruvian highlands, it features a delicate fringed detail.

HANDWOVEN ALPACA BLANKET WITH FRINGE

An indulgently warm blanket throw with long fringes on all four sides gives an added layer of texture to this classic piece. The superior fine Alpaca wool is sourced from Fair Trade Alpaca farms in Southern Peru. The Alpaca is spun together with the softest wool to create a yarn with a lofty coiled pile that is hand-woven on traditional wooden looms by Peruvian artisans creating a plush bouclé finish that endures.

SHEPHERD'S WOOL BLANKET

Wide textured stripes are woven in this weighty wool blanket throw. Made using traditional techniques in Bulgaria from rare Bulgarian sheep breeds, the Pleven Blackhead and Rhodope Tsigai. The yarns are Oeko-Tex certified and fully traceable back to the shepherds. After weaving the blankets are washed in Springwater from the mountains to soften the handle.

WILD SILK CUSHION

Hand crafted from Tussar Wild Silk, a raw, slubby silk highly valued for its naturally golden colour and raw texture. It is processed, spun, hand-dyed, and woven on antique hand looms by skilled artisans in Eastern India. The cushion is finished with a supple leather binding.

Due to the natural dyes used some colour transference may occur.

BATIK BLOCK PRINT CUSHION WITH FRINGING

The linen fabric for this cushion is hand printed in India from wood and metal blocks using the traditional method. It takes three artisans a day to print six metres of fabric. It takes another three days for drying, airing, and curing the fabric that is then stone washed. The cushion is hand crafted from this artisanal fabric and finished with a handmade wool and linen fringing.
