'Cornubia' is the second collaboration between interior designer Ben Pentreath and Morris & Co. Taking its name from the Latin for Cornwall, the collection celebrates the landscape of this distinctive region with fabrics rich in pattern and colour. Morris & Co, Design Centre Chelsea Harbour, London SW10 (morrisandco.sandersondesigngroup.com).

From 9 to 15 May, London Craft Week returns with a packed programme featuring some 4,000 independent makers and over 300 events, including immersive experiences, exhibitions, pop-up stores and workshops. Soane Britain will be exhibiting its 'Easy Chair', seen here, created by the Edward Barnsley Workshop. Visit londoncraftweek.com.

Kingcome Sofas protects and nurtures Britain's heritage of furniture making. Each piece is made at the company's workshops in Devon by a team of craftspeople whose skills range from cabinetmaking to upholstery. Every item is built to endure the test of time. Kingcome Sofas, 114 Fulham Rd, London SW3 (020 7244 7747; kingcomesofas.co.uk).

Artefact, the contemporary craft fair at Design Centre Chelsea Harbour (10-15 May), brings the joy of artisanship to an audience of professionals and enthusiasts. As well as talks and demonstrations, visitors will find stunning objects from a host of international galleries and in the showrooms' collections. Visit dccc.co.uk/artefact-2022.

De Le Cuona's 'Golden Age' collection is inspired by the chic and opulence of the 1920s. Understated glamour is embodied in bouclés, superfine merino, beautiful silks and linens in a luxurious palette of neutrals, silver and gold – 'it whispers but never shouts'. De Le Cuona, 44 Pimlico Rd, London SW1 (020 7730 0944; delecuona.com) ■
