

MORNING YOGA FLOW GUIDE

ONE ELEVEN

YOGA ASANA: PRANAMASANA (Prayer/salutation pose)

Associated chakra: heart (anahata)

Effects of this asana:

- Pranamasana helps maintain the balance of the body and relax the nervous system.

YOGA ASANA: HASTA UTTANASAN (Sky reaching pose)

Associated chakra: throat (vishuddha)

Effects of this asana:

- Hastauttanasana stretches & tones the muscles of the abdomen, improving digestion.
- It also expands the chest, resulting in a full intake of oxygen, thereby fully utilising the lung capacity.
- The upward stretch gives traction to the spine to help maintain health of the spinal discs and nerves.
- This pose may help remove excess weight due to its effect of vishuddhi chakra and the thyroid gland, thus enhancing metabolism.
- In this asana, we are stretching our whole being upwards towards the source of light to receive divine blessings.

YOGA ASANA: PADA HASTASANA (Standing forward bend)

Associated chakra: sacral. Creativity. (Svadisthana)

Effects of this asana:

If you have only a limited time for yoga, the sun salutations are your best choice.

It is wise to learn from a quality yoga practitioner how to do these poses for your unique self.

Limitations for Practicing Surya Namaskar;

- There is no limitation as far as age is concerned. Surya Namaskar can be practiced beneficially throughout all stages of life.
- Elderly people should avoid over-exertion.
- Those with hypertension, coronary artery disease or those who have had a stroke should take it very slow. Proceed with caution so as not to overstimulate or damage a weak heart or blood vessel system.
- Hernia or intestinal tuberculosis - consult a quality yoga practitioner and/or medical practitioner.
- Spinal problems - consult a quality yoga therapist as you may need to potentially adjust the poses. Note that surya namaskar can help alleviate spinal problems. Those with sciatica or slipped disc may very well need to tailor their sequence with a yoga therapist.
- Menstruation - If it feels comfortable, slow and very gently practice may be done but is generally reckoned to be avoided, especially if you experience heavy, painful or uncomfortable periods.
- Pregnancy - best to be avoided.
- In general, do not strain. Surya namaskar is meant to be a sequence that you flow through effortlessly.
