GAUGE

14 sc = about 4 in. (10 cm).

EXACT GAUGE NOT REQUIRED, HOWEVER NOT MEETING GAUGE WILL CHANGE YARDAGE AMOUNTS NEEDED.

NOTES

1. Yardage required for each color will vary based on the temperature in your area.
2. When working to gauge, each ball of yarn is enough for about 27 rows (or 27 days corresponding to one temperature range).
3. Because a temperature blanket is by default 365 rows long (1 row per day) the length of the blanket will be generous. The width of the blanket may be altered as desired, keeping in mind this will affect the amount of yarn needed.
4. Work 1 row per day in the color that corresponds to the day's high temperature.
5. Miss a day? Check past temperatures in the US on the AccuWeather site at https://www.accuweather.com/

THE BLANKET

Using your first color (the color matching your high temperature on January 1, or the first day of your blanket), chain 211.

Set Up Row: Continuing with your first color, sc in second ch from hook and each ch to end, turn – 210 sc.

Next Row: With color matching your temp for the day, ch 1, sc in each st to end of row, turn – 210 sc.

Continue working this row (1 row for each day) using the color yarn that matches the day's high temperature.

FINISHING

Weave in ends.

ABBREVIATIONS

beg = begin(ning)

ch = chain

sc = single crochet

st(s) = stitch(es)
