Tozen [tō-zen] Glow [glō]

adjective; intransitive verb

origin: Japanese; Middle English

1. Naturally; as a matter of course; justified; deserved
2. To shine with low light

Dreamy, reflective and translucent, Tozen Glow amplifies the beauty of watercolor glass by applying silver or gold leaf for a third dimension of metallic shimmer. Artists first fuse gold or silver leaf to translucent colored glass. They then apply an impenetrable finish that makes the tile appropriate for a variety of commercial and residential projects, including submerged applications.
