I bought this for a parent to use at home with her child. It's a great resource, with lots included. I'll definitely be able to use this in class also. Thanks for this!

Long Vowels

Put the sentences on rings!

Prep it once and use it over and over, year after year! You will need small book rings and a hole punch! I printed the pages on paper and then laminated them, but printing on cardstock would be much easier (and faster)!

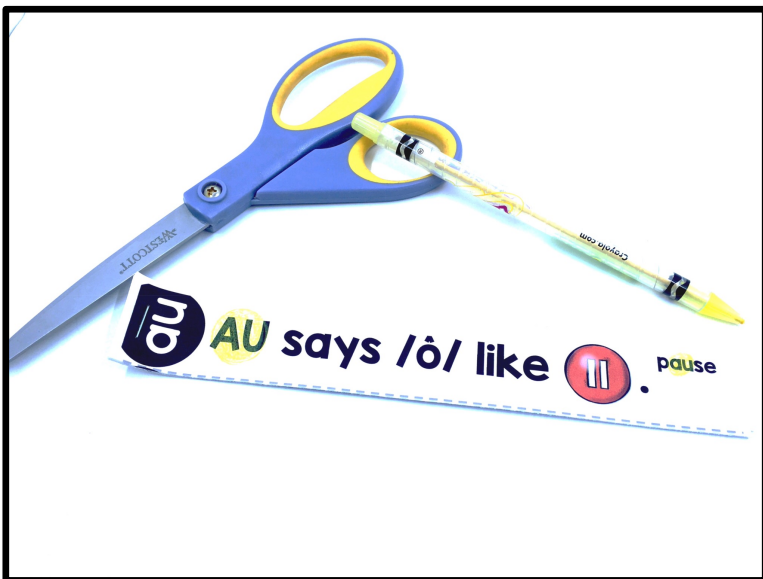

2 Ways to Use

Diphthongs shown in this example

Let your students do the work with "make and take" books!

Print and give students the page with the target phonics skill. Have them cut on the dotted lines and then stack the strips. Staple them together on the left hand side. Voila!

A few of my students were getting stuck on long vs. short vowel sounds. This resource was a great stepping stone to make them work on these sounds but giving them the support of context as they start to build fluency with these words and patterns! Thank you!

PERFECT way for students to build fluency!

Targeted long vowel practice + reading fluency ALL in ONE resource!

Use year after year!

Ready for students to build fluency for any long vowel skills you may need!

A worksheet for reading fluency practice. It features a list of sentences on the left, each preceded by a right-pointing arrow in a black circle. The sentences are: 'Y says /ī/ like' (with a crying baby illustration), 'She likes to cry at night.', 'I need to dry my hair.', 'The bird gets to fly.', 'We like to fry fish to eat.', 'I had to spy on Ted.', 'Why do you look shy?', and 'The chick should try to fly.'. To the right of this list is a story with several lines of text, some of which are partially obscured by the list. The story includes words like 'cape', 'maze', 'mane', 'crane', 'Chase', 'game', 'name', and 'cake'. At the bottom of the worksheet, there is a sentence: 'The fly is so sly.' with a fly illustration.
