Name _____

Vocabulary ○ Southern Hemisphere ○ predators ○ camouflage ○ colonies

Penguins are a kind of bird. They are much different from the birds you might think of. They have wings like all birds, but they do not use them to fly. Penguins use their wings to swim through the water. There are 17 species of penguins. They all live in the Southern Hemisphere. Most penguins live in cold places with ice and snow. They spend a lot of time in the water, but they live on land.

Penguins swim very fast. They swim to hunt for food to eat. They catch fish, squid, and krill. Penguins also swim fast to escape predators. Sharks, whales, sea lions, and seals all hunt penguins. Penguins also protect themselves from predators through camouflage. They are white and black. Their white bellies blend backs blend in with the water as they swim. Blending in makes it harder for predators to see them.

Penguins live in big groups called colonies. The penguins in colonies swim, hunt, and live together. Female penguins lay one egg at a time. Penguin chicks hatch from the eggs. Females have flaps of skin called brood pouches. They use these pouches to cover eggs and chicks to keep them warm.

Penguins like to play. They enjoy jumping off of cliffs and diving into the water. They also like sliding on their bellies. Penguins even surf in the water. They have fun playing.

★★★★★ Extremely satisfied

THESE ARE AMAZING! I have used these for reading fluency, for reading assessments, and numerous other reading activities. My students love the stories whether they are fiction or nonfiction and they love that we can start easy and work out way harder. The only thing is that I wish there were more stories for the levels; they are by far my best purchase!

★★★★★ Extremely satisfied

My students love reading the different stories. They also like when they can move up to a different level and learn even more about a topic. This is great to use in class and have small groups. Everyone is learning about the same thing so you can have whole group discussions about the story after reading it in small group.
